

Mark S. Lange, AIA

Mark S. Lange is a principal in Lord Aeck Sargent's Housing & Mixed-Use (HMU) practice area. He focuses on developing business across a wide variety of urban area commercial project types as he helps clients to move their new projects through architectural planning, design, and implementation.

Lange has worked on a number of projects throughout his career, but is particularly proud of 4900 Fairmont, an apartment highrise overlooking Veterans Park in Bethesda, Maryland, now under construction; The Adelia, a luxury condo highrise with especially engaging retail streetscape located in Midtown Nashville near Vanderbilt University and Music Row; Crescent Terminus, midrise luxury apartments currently under construction in Atlanta's Buckhead commercial district; and 3630 Peachtree, a stacked, mixed-use highrise project in Atlanta's Buckhead area near the prestigious Phipps Plaza

Before coming to LAS, Lange spent the last 25 years at several large architecture firms in Atlanta and Houston. He and his work are the recipients of several awards, among them the 2007 Service to the Profession Award from AIA (American Institute of Architects) Atlanta, the 1995 Texas Society of Architects Honor Award for the Houston Museum of Natural Science Cockrell Butterfly Center, and the 1989 AIA Houston Honor Award for Arlington Court Townhouses.

Lange earned his master's degree in architecture from Rice University and his bachelor's degree (cum laude) from Cornell University's College of Arts & Sciences. He is a member of the AIA and has held positions as chair of the Committee on Design for the AIA South Atlantic Region and as Design Committee chair for AIA Houston. He also has served on the board of directors for AIA Atlanta.
