

Celebrating the Life of Terry Sargent

Terry Sargent, 66, of Ann Arbor, MI, died peacefully surrounded by family on November 3, 2014. Terry was born on July 31, 1948 in Bay City, MI. He grew up in Midland, attended Bay City High School and enjoyed helping out on the farm and playing football. Terry then went to the University of Michigan to pursue his Bachelors of Architecture (class of 1971) and continued on to receive his Masters of Urban Planning (class of 1973). During his time in this program, he met his wife, Jean Wineman.

Terry and Jean moved to Atlanta, GA, where Terry established the architecture firm Lord & Sargent, later becoming Lord, Aeck & Sargent, with fellow architects Larry Lord and Tony Aeck. The firm currently has offices in six cities including Ann Arbor, which he opened in 2001. Terry was a gifted designer and valued mentor. His expertise earned him over 50 awards including two National American Institute of Architects (AIA) Honor Awards, three Progressive Architecture Design Awards, and more than 30 regional and local AIA awards. Some of his most notable works include: Trinity School, Atlanta, GA; Zoo Atlanta Conservation Center; Duke University Genome Sciences Building; Georgia Public Health Laboratory; National Parks Service Twin Creek Science Center; University of Michigan Law Library Restoration; and University of Michigan Memorial Phoenix Laboratory. Terry was recognized with a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Huron Valley AIA in the fall of last year.

Outside of work, Terry enjoyed golf, basketball, skiing and other outdoor activities such as fly fishing, camping and hiking. He also enjoyed weekends in the mountains and adventurous vacations with his wife and daughters. He was a loving husband to his wife, Jean, and a devoted father to his daughters and their families: Lindsey and AJ Reisinger, Kelsey Sargent and John Egge, Maisie Sargent and Robbie Auld. He was important to the lives of: his parents, Don and Evelyn Sargent; his sisters, Debbie Purcell and Valery Sargent and their families; his parents-in-law, the late Peg and Bob Wineman; his siblings-in-law, Janet Wineman, the late Barbara Wineman, Marian Wineman, and Tom Wineman and their families. He will be missed by all, and his memory will live on through the places he created.

The Terry Sargent Scholarship Fund

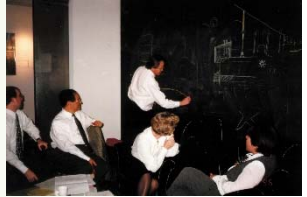

As the first member of his family to graduate from college, Terry was always grateful for the advantages that his education afforded him. He graduated in 1971 from the University of Michigan with a Bachelor's Degree in Architecture.

At the University of Michigan Terry earned his Master's Degree in Urban Planning in 1973. Throughout his life, he and his wife Jean Wineman were passionate about the education of their daughters, and recognized that their own education afforded them the means to provide opportunities for their family which were not available to others.

To celebrate his life as an award-winning architect with a passion for design and the environment and with gratitude for the opportunities that his education provided, the family is requesting that donations be directed to The University of Michigan Taubman College of Architecture and Urban Planning Special Scholarship Fund (304930). The scholarship bearing Terry's name will be awarded to an undergraduate architecture student who will be the first generation in his/her family to attend college.

To donate, please send a check made payable to the "University of Michigan" and send it to Erik Boneff at 2000 Bonisteel Blvd., Ann Arbor, MI 48109-2069 or you can donate online by clicking here <http://victo.rs/1qIM7XS>.

Terry was a mentor to many in the architecture field and not only our Ann Arbor design team, but so many in Atlanta who considered him their tutor. Throughout the years they gained much admiration for him, both in the personal and professional sense.
