FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

12 PROMOTED IN LORD AECK SARGENT ATLANTA HEADQUARTERS OFFICE
Award-Winning Architecture and Planning Firm
Continues Tradition of Developing Talent from Within

ATLANTA — March 5, 2018 – Lord Aeck Sargent recently promoted 15 of its members. Twelve of those professionals are based out of the Atlanta headquarters office. The leading architecture, design and planning firm has six offices that focus on responsive design, technical expertise and sustainable practices.

Its design staff represents a broad range of expertise including registered architects, preservation planners, interior designers, urban designers, material specialists, land planners, landscape architects, cost estimators, building performance analysts and zoning specialists.

“We have a tremendous amount of talent in our firm and these colleagues continue to impress us as they use their creativity, knowledge and passion to make great strides in the industry,” said Joe Greco, President of Lord Aeck Sargent. “We are proud to have them represent Lord Aeck Sargent and we have the utmost confidence they will make a lasting impact in our offices and in the cities that we serve across the country.”

- Josh Andrews AIA, LEED AP, was promoted to Principal. He is involved in planning, programming, design, construction administration and project management. Andrews has been with Lord Aeck Sargent since 2000 and has significant expertise in higher education facilities focusing on science & technology, active learning, student life and historic preservation, as well as K-12 and corporate projects. Andrews has managed a number of higher education projects, including the Harris A. Smith Building for Packaging Science at Clemson University and the Human and Agricultural Biosciences Building I at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. He is a National Council of Architectural Registration Boards certificate holder and serves on the board of directors for The Museum School of Avondale Estates.
- Angela Speeth was promoted to Senior Associate. She is a Technical Operations Manager and has more than 18 years in the design industry supporting front and back office operations throughout the project lifecycle.
- David Steele, AIA, NCARB, CDT, was promoted to Senior Associate. Steele recently worked on the restoration of Covenant College’s Carter Hall in Lookout Mountain, Ga., which successfully rehabilitated the building’s entire façade and returned it to its original Tudor-style appearance and detailing. He also served as key roles on the project teams of the rehabilitations to the GEM Theatre in Calhoun, Ga., and the University of Georgia’s Fine Arts Building.
